Harry McNair, a Leading Cattle Dealer of County Passes Away at an Early Age.

He conducted a very large and successful business as a dealer in live stock, horses and cattle, and was widely known in this state, Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia, where he dealt extensively. There were few butchers in the county but had dealings with him. He was aged 49 yrs., very popular and highly esteemed. He was a young man, the youngest of the McNair family, and had prospered and become a large real estate holder. Only recently he built new stables on his place for his business. Throughout her long life Mrs. Riffle rarely experienced any illness, and the end came when she was apparently in her accustomed state of health. She was found lying upon the bed fully dressed, when one of the members of her son's family went to call her to breakfast, and life was already extinct. She was the widow of Edw. Riffle, deceased, and is survived by two daughters and one son: Mrs. Lewis Menchey, of near Westminster; Augustus Riffle, of near Melrose, with whom she resided, and Mrs. Edward Aumen, of Littlestown. The funeral was on last Friday afternoon, the services being conducted in St. Paul's Lutheran church of Littlestown by Rev. J. Jay Hill and interment made in Mt. Carmel cemetery of same place.

MRS. EMMA ZIEGLER, widow of Charles Ziegler, a former County Treasurer of Adams Co. died at her home in Chicago, on last Friday. Mrs. Ziegler was a native of this place where she had a host of friends, being a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Geyer. She married Charles Ziegler a well known carpenter of this place, who was a stanch Democrat all his life. He was a familiar figure in all Democratic demonstrations in his part as fifer. The family lived many years on Chambersburg Street in the property adjoining College Church on the east, now occupied by E S. Faber. After the death of her husband about fifteen years ago Mrs. Ziegler moved to Chicago where her sons had located and there many Gettysburgians found a warm welcome at her home. The body was brought here on Monday afternoon on the two o'olock train over the Reading Railroad and taken direct to the Evergreen Cemetery where services were held by Dr. T. J. Barkley, of the Reformed Church, of which church she had been a devoted member during her residence here. She leaves four sons and one daughter, Harry Ziegler, Charles Ziegler, George Ziegler, Samuel Ziegler and Mrs. Bertha Parker all of Chicago.

One brother, Edward Spaulding, of Littlestown, and one sister, Mrs. Adam Noel, of McSherrystown also survive.

WILLIAM H. TWOMEY was found dead early yesterday morning on the porch of the home of his brother on York street. He was about 50 years of age. He had been working at Pittsburg. Last year he came back to Gettysburg and got a joo on section force of W. M. R. R. He was of a quiet disposition, harming no one but himself with his heavy drinking, and in that condition he ended his life with the contents of a two ounce bottle of carbolic acid. The bottle was found in a pocket and his mouth was burnt with the acid. It is thought he had been dead several hours when found. Coroner Dr. H. M. Hartman was sent for and summoned as a jury of inquest, F. R. Schriver, Paul G. Hartman, Philip R. Bikle, Clifford C. Bream, Daniel R. Straley and Oliver F. Benner, who viewed the body and made return that he came to his death from carbolic acid poisoning by his own hand while under the influence of liquor.

The label on bottle containing the carbolic acid was that of the Gettysburg Drug Co. on Chambersburg St., opposite Eagle Hotel.

Robbery at Oyler's Home.

The home of Price Oyler on Hunterstown road at the edge of town was entered and robbed on last Sunday evening. The family had gone to church and there was no one at home. Upon their return Mrs. Oyler found that her bureau had been ransacked, contents being strewn about. Her purse containing a $5 bill and some change had been taken and a gold watch of Mr. Oylers. There is no clue to the identity of the robber.

The case was tried in Carlisle last November and jury rendered a verdict for $15,000 damages. The accident was the result of a collision with cars of the Western Maryland Railroad standing on the wye, when the Reading train was sent into the wye for the purpose of turning train. SPRING IMPROVEMENTS.

NEW BUILDINGS, IMPROVEMENTS, PAINTING GOING ON.

Certain Suggested Public Improvements Which Would Add Much to the Town.

The building and improving season is in full swing. It seems to be one of the extra lots of the season following winter that along with new lots and spring clothes that dwellings will receive new touches. Builders, painters, carpenters, painters and others have already begun to be busy and unless appearances are deceptive, the are going to have a good year of work.

The First National Bank building is being rapidly pushed toward completion, but it will probably be months before it is pronounced finished. It is expected within the next six weeks to finish the handsome exterior, which will require the entire building to be scaffolded and wedging removed and stone work pointed.

A number of dwellings in course of erection have been finished and occupied, John Weidlich's home on Baltimore street, Miss Mary L. Myers' on High street, and Joseph Galbraith's house on West Middle street being those very recently finished. Joseph M. Topper has finished the erection of a second house on Steinwehr avenue, and it is about ready for occupation.

New Houses.

W. S. Duttera has begun the erection of three new houses on the tan yard property, Baltimore street. The cellars have been excavated and the cellar walls of tile have been erected, the tiling coming from the Speese tile works near town. The structure will be of cement blocks.

Mervin Stallsmith is erecting a dwelling on Buford avenue and is going to demonstrate the attractiveness of a cement house. The cellar walls of cement have been erected and the first floor is in course of erection. The cement blocks have been given a rock finish. Enough cement blocks have been completed with his cement machine which has been located at the rear of his lot, to complete the building.

Improvements.

James M. Caldwell on Chambersburg street, has added a third story to his residence in the shape of a mansard roof with a bay window on the second floor and has greatly improved the appearance of his home.

Mr. and Mrs. Craig Shields began the erection on Tuesday of a mansard roof on their residence on York street.

Connection has already been made with the public sewer and bath room will be added to dwelling, a furnace installed and other modern conveniences.

George Eberhart had a cement floor placed in his garage on Washington street last week, the finishing touches are being put on the work this week.

Other smaller improvements have been made to a number of places. New porches have been built for the Mayer houses on High street. The Reading Railroad built a brick pavement last week on both sides of their track on north side of Buford avenue, which will be a great convenience to the citizens of that street, specially when there is a completed sidewalk to Chambersburg street.

Fences had their uses especially in days when stray animals were at large, but such days being over, the movement has been toward removal of fences and thereby improvement to the perspective of buildings and surroundings, yet the reverse is the effect of the fence enclosing the small plot in rear of the Episcopal Church.

C. Wm. Sheads, the mason, has excavated cellar for a dwelling on the south side of East Middle street extended, near the property of Earnest Ziegler. The foundation walls are being completed.

The Spalding property, corner York and Stratton streets has been very much improved with a new pavement, the entire length of lot on Stratton street.

The Seminary authorities have made arrangements to plant an ornamental hedge around their property on the Springs avenue and along Hay street. Trenches have been dug on those St's. The California privet evergreen will be planted and in time will add much to the appearances of the grounds.

J. Frank Hartman added a back building to one of his properties on York Street, making space for bath room.

Ex-Sheriff A. Calvin Baseboar completed the improvements to his residence on York Street last week by painting the house. The dwelling with large porch and bay window being much improved.

Five new motors were placed in the shirt factory conducted by Chas. Trostle on York Street last week.

Painting.

The season of painting is at hand. According to a very old saying, if you want a good job of painting in the spring, one that will hold on, you must wait until the dark of the moon following the vernal equinox. That time is now up, and painters are and have been at work.

J. L. Butt has begun the repainting of his residence on Carlisle street.

The J. Emory Bair residence on same street, formerly the Col. Buehler home has been vastly changed during the winter months, and is now being painted and presents an attractive appearance.

Mrs. Anna Tate is having her home on East Middle street treated with a coat of paint.

Suggested Improvements.

To begin with public improvements we would suggest that the County Commissioners have a cement pavement around the court house. The pavement on Middle street has become rather billowy and the county runs the risk of being ordered by the borough to make a new pavement and to speak in brief pleasantries a new pavement should be put down. While they are at it, the best kind should be put down, not only on Middle street, but around the entire building and the kind should be cement pavement.

The borough ought not to make trouble for citizens as long as it maintains a series of water puddles in rainy weather in the borough pavements surrounding the public square and also makes people wade over muddy crossings. Cement pavements and curbs around the Diamond would be a public work of much merit if undertaken by the Town Fathers and it is commended to them. As the borough's Street Commissioner shows a most commendable spirit in the use of the hoe in removing from the crossings the accumulations of mud, it would be just as commendable if the Town Fathers would help in this work by having every crossing overhauled and raised if necessary, and finished on either side with stone, so as to remove the jolts.

The School Board as yet has not removed that stairway trap in north end of High street school building.

The college could improve their grounds and add to the comfort of the citizens by placing cement pavements along Preparatory grounds on Carlisle street and college grounds on Washington street.

The War Department of the United States Government could and should spend a little money. Some architect caused to be erected in a National cemetery where the color scheme of nature and memorials is green and white, a red brick lodge, along flattish lines, and it makes little difference where you stand in the cemetery, one wonders at the intrusion of red brick. This intrusion should be removed by painting the lodge white.

Concluding we have offered enough suggestions to answer for in one week's time. We commend them to the tender mercies of those who may see a way to profit thereby.

New Band Director.

John J. Wikel, of Steelton, Pa., a teacher of reed and brass instruments, formerly connected with the First U. S. Infantry and Seventh U. S. Cavalry bands, and at present connected with the Commonwealth Band of Harrisburg, has accepted position as leader and director of the Citizens' Band of this place. He will begin his work here at the band practice on next Friday evening, May 1st. Mr. Wikel visited this place and appeared before the band and impressed those with whom he came in contact as a musical instructor of much ability. A trial engagement of two months has been arranged and proving satisfactory in every way Mr. Wikel will likely become a resident of Gettysburg. By profession he is a mason.

Notes of a Local Line.

There will be a meeting of the High School Alumni in Meade High School on Thursday evening at 7.30, and a full attendance is desired.

The Methodist Sunday School, beginning next Sunday, will meet at 9.15 in the morning.

Since our last issue the trees of the town have put on their green verdure and Gettysburg will soon be in the grandeur of its reputation, one of the most beautiful spots on earth.

The capacious Law Library Room is admirably adapted for public meetings and is a credit to our county, as both our own people and visitors agree.

New Home for Elks.

A number of members of the local lodge of the Benevolent Protective Order of Elks have bought the L. M. and Ralph Buehler property formerly occupied by the Buehler family on the south side of York street, midway in the first block, for the purpose of converting the same into a permanent Elk home. The dwelling is specially adapted for the purpose, being substantially built, large, roomy and answering well the purposes of the new owners. The room on the east side occupied by Geo. C. Gotwald's tin shop is included in the purchase, giving frontage room for any additional building in the future.

York street is certainly looking up, with a handsome school building on point and the Elk home in the next square.

JAMES GETTYS, PROPRIETOR

HIS HOME FIRST STORE, FIRST TAVERN, FIRST COURT HOUSE.

His Predominating Characteristic Was a Public Spiritedness, Helping His Town and County.

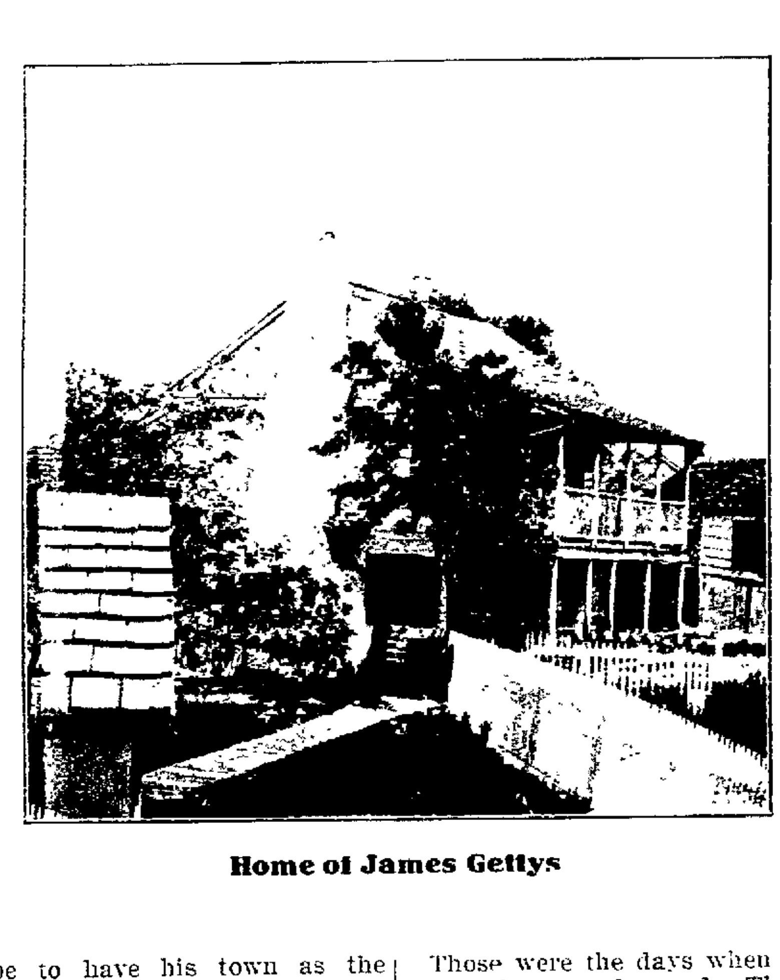

James Gettys [illegible] Gettysburg, was not [illegible] man [illegible] of determination, of force of character, of resources and fold, but from the distance of almost a century must have [illegible] the new County of Adams' [illegible] citizen in public spiritedness. The [illegible] and predominating [illegible] of this man's life during the [illegible] of a century ex[illegible] between death of his father in 1790 and his own death in 1815, was [illegible] the advance [illegible] of his county and town. [illegible] the first house, [illegible] and conducted [illegible] encouraged others [illegible] the town [illegible] support [illegible] Adams [illegible] of York [illegible] decision hung in the [illegible] gift to the pro[illegible] much to do [illegible] gift had no [illegible] that the town should [illegible] the county seat [illegible] Gettystown [illegible] only con[illegible] advantage it ably some foresight of the uses it would be put to. The rooms were large and had great open fire places as the big chimneys made possible.

At the first court to be held in the Gettys home on June 3, 1800, James Gettys was the sixth person to be recommended to the Governor to receive a license for his tavern. Licensed taverns were more numerous in the year 1800 than at present, for while the number does not reach 10 now, in those days the number was over 60. But those were the days when it was considered an act of hospitality to open the doors of your home to the wayfarer, for the travelers of those days were literal wayfarers.

James Gettys soon became a political figure in Adams county. The man who had helped to bring about the formation of the county and won the county seat for his town was a man of influence, one held in respect, and when he became candidate for sheriff in 1803 he won easily at the polls and at the December court, 1803, it is James Gettys Sheriff of Adams county who summons the jurors to serve at court, which is held at the home of James Gettys.

The public spiritedness of the man is shown in the interest he took in all developments of his town and county. The turnpike was to his day what the railroad and trolley has been to other days and he was a subscriber to the stock of the Gettysburg and Petersburg turnpike, one of the great pikes of the county.

When the Bank of Gettysburg was incorporated in 1814, James Gettys subscribed for stock in it and became a director of the bank.

would be to have his town as the county seat.

The county of Adams was created by Act of Legislature on Jan. 22, 1800, but a year before, on Jan. 24, 1799, James Gettys and Mary, his wife, executed a paper to Alexander Dobbin and David Moore, which was among the first papers to be recorded when the new county of Adams was created and one clause in it reads as follows:

"Whereas, the said James Gettys has laid out two hundred lots in the form of a town which is known by the name of Gettystown, a considerable number of which are improved upon, reserving to himself, and to his heirs, executors, administrators and assigns the yearly ground rent of seven shillings and six pence upon each and every lot as aforesaid to be paid on the 10th day of January of each and every year. And whereas it is in contemplation by the Legislature now assembled, to divide the county of York, and also to fix upon a suitable place for the seat of justice for the new county. Now know ye that for and in consideration of the advantages which we may derive from the increase in value of the remainder of our property by Gettystown being fixed upon for the seat of justice, we therefore, transfer and set over unto the said Alexander Dobbin and David Moore in trust for and to his only proper use and behoof of the said county so to be created all our rights, title and claim whatsoever to the ground rent aforesaid which may accrue after Jan. 4, 1799, and also our right, title, interest and claim to a suitable lot of ground for the purpose of building a goal thereon."

Reading history backward it is known now that James Gettys derived little benefit from this gift, while the county has enjoyed quit rents amounting to about $200 a year for 108 years, a total of over $21,000 due to the liberality and public spiritedness of the proprietor of Gettysburg.

The quit rents given to county from 200 lots were the lots surrounding the Diamond, along Chambersburg, Carlisle and York streets for about a square and along Baltimore street for over two squares, and on East and West Middle street and East and West High street.

When Adams county was created, [illegible] provision had been [illegible] Room for a [illegible] James Gettys [illegible] His home, [illegible] presented this [illegible] house to be built in the [illegible] site of the first [illegible] the first tav[illegible] and now [illegible] the coun[illegible] of Adams [illegible] family [illegible] Isabella Gettys [illegible] Gettys [illegible]

[illegible] of the [illegible] son [illegible] during the [illegible] the second Monday [illegible] and December [illegible] held in the Gettys home during the years 1800 [illegible] and until the court house in the Diamond was completed [illegible] 1804.

James Gettys and Samuel Gettys in building their home [illegible] virgin land where a building had never stood before, erected the same of logs along generous lines. There was probably some foresight...

Those were the days when the military spirit was fostered. The United States had thrown off the English yoke but had not become strong and a patriotic people, peradventure the need, formed military companies and militia wherever there was enough men for the purpose. Gettysburg was no exception. James Gettys gave his encouragement to these organizations took an active interest in them, and derived the title of Colonel from that source, and before his death this military title had grown until he was known by every one as General James Gettys.

The record of what James Gettys, proprietor, did certainly shows that he was a public spirited patriot, whose memory the town ought always to cherish. His hand was ever ready to help along a good couse. He presented the ground to the Lutheran and Reformed congregations upon which they built their first union church at the eastern end of High street. He ratified his obligation of 1799 seven or eight years later by making a deed to the county for the land on High street upon which the jail was built.

A concluding word as to the old log house of the Gettys family would be in place. The first house in Gettysburg, the first store, the first tavern, the first court house stood almost one hundred years. It was after midnight in the early morning of Oct. 28, 1880, that the hay shed of John Gilbert near to the Gettys house caught fire. By the formation of the town the latter stood along the alley, back of the Globe Inn. On the evening before there had been a big Democratic demonstration in Gettysburg in the Hancock-Garfield campaign. McDowell Sharp of Chambersburg was one of the speakers of the evening. In the dead of the night the fire broke out in the hay shed and the flames quickly spread to the Gettys home and in a short time it was burning furiously. The home was then occupied by the Doersom family. The fire gained such headway that an aged aunt, Barbara Smith, had to be carried out of the house scantily clothed. A few things in house on first floor were saved, but everything on second floor went up in flames when the Gettys home burnt down. That fire was one of the great ones of the town, the Gilbert shed, old Gettys house, Globe Inn stable, Jesse Walter's stable and S. J. Codori's butchering establishment being destroyed.

But the last word has not as yet been said as to James Gettys, proprietor.

Chair Factory Burns.

The chair factory and barn of Henry Raffensperger, at Five points, three miles north of New Chester, this county, were completely destroyed by fire Monday afternoon, April 20, entailing a loss of about $1500 fully covered by insurance in the Mummasburg Fire Insurance Co. The fire was caused by sparks from the smoke stack of the chair factory, which ignited a straw stack near the barn, which communicated with the barn and factory building completely destroying both in a short time. A bucket brigade was formed by the workmen in the factory but the fire had gained such headway that it was impossible to save either the factory building or the barn and the fire fighters then confined their efforts to saving adjoining property.

POINT ON SECOND MARRIAGES.

Sexes Differ When It Comes to Choice of Future Mate.

"There's a curious thing," said a minister, "that I've noticed about second marriages. It is this: Widowers rarely marry women whom they knew either before or during their first period of married life, while with widows the case, as a rule, is just reversed.

"How do I explain this? Well, I don't; I just mention the fact. But I suppose my guess is as good as another's. Of course, to begin with, a man has more freedom of choice; that is, his activities are apt to give him a larger circle of acquaintances than a woman.

"A woman, if her first marriage has been happy, longs for a continuation of that happiness; if it has not been wholly so, she is still searching for a satisfaction of ideals. She is more likely to regard with favor a suitor whom she has known for some time than a recent acquaintance. Women, you remember, are naturally more conservative than men, and a woman is much more disposed to be careful about a second marriage than a first.

"Of course, these are only theories that I'm indulging in. But the facts regarding the tendencies in second marriages are as I have stated. Any one can confirm them by running over the second marriages of his or her friends."

JUST WANTED TO SEE MONEY.

And the Little Old Lady Had Her Confidence Restored.

She was a little old lady, so little and so old that with considerate friends she would never, never have been allowed alone in the hurried throng on the busy streets. She was such an old little lady that she had only just learned that there had been trouble in the banks, and she had made such haste as she could to be sure that her money—all the money she had saved—was safe.

"Have you got my money?" she asked tremulously when she finally reached the teller's window.

"How much did you have?" asked the teller kindly. No one could help being kind to such a little old lady.

"Twenty-five dollars," she answered. "Two tens and a five. I didn't wish to take it out," she continued apologetically, "but I should feel better if you could just let me see it."

So they showed her carefully "two tens and a five." Her faded eyes brightened, and with a grateful "Thank you," she left, every line of her bent little figure showing happy contentment and confidence, for she had seen her money.

The American in Canada.

The American farmer is a practical man; there is no cleverer-headed citizen in the world, and moreover he is frankly honest. When he finds in Canada a system of jurisprudence under which law is everywhere respected, when he learns that Canada has never seen a lynching, that Canadian history tells of no Indian wars, he is very willing to acknowledge that there is little here he would wish to change. The fact is that in his general views and attitude toward life no one is more like a Canadian than an American. The fact that they are subjected to similar environment and to the same broad sweeping continental forces readily explains how by merely crossing north or south an imaginary boundary line Canadian and American alike pass from one citizenship to another with far less friction than an Englishman can be transplanted to either American or Canadian soil.—Atlantic Monthly.

Poetry Won Bandit's Heart.

Prof. Bliss Perry tells a story to illustrate the advantages of literary wisdom. A friend, he says, was traveling in French mountains when on a lonely road he was stopped by highwaymen, his life threatened, and his valuables demanded. His literary instincts were to the fore, even in his extremity, and half unconsciously he burst forth with an appropriate couplet, quoted from some obscure French poet.

"Hold!" cried the leader of the highwaymen. "My comrades, this gentleman is acquainted with the works of our friend, M. So-and-So! He is then, our brother."

The purse was returned, courtesies extended, and the traveler and three bandits adjourned to an inn near by and spent a pleasant evening.—Boston Herald.

Edison to Mark Twain.

Thomas A. Edison paid a very pretty compliment to Mark Twain at a dinner of the Engineers' club to Andrew Carnegie. Using his place card as a memorandum page, and writing with lead pencil in the small round letters characteristic of his hand, Mr. Edison inscribed a sentiment and handed the card idly over to his neighbor, L. A. Martin. It read:

"An American loves his family. If he has any love left over for some other person he generally selects Mark Twain."—Syracuse Herald.

Has Good Opinion of Women

"Men have no organization in the world that is doing as much for the world at the present time and for civilization as the National Federation of Women's Clubs," said Prof. Zueblin of Chicago in an address at Minneapolis. He said that woman is not only stronger mentally, but she is superior to man physically, and the day of her equality with man is at an end as she is in every respect his superior

CASE AFTER CASE.

Plenty More Like This in Gettysburg.

Scores of Gettysburg people can tell you about Doan's Kidney Pills. Many a happy citizen makes a public statement of his experience. Here is a case of it. What better proof of merit can be had than such endorsehent?

Mrs. John A. Tawney living at 234 Baltimore street, Gettysburg, Pa., says "Mr. Tawney suffered off and on from rheumatism and kidney complaint for a long time. His back ached severely and in the morning he would be so stiff and lame that he could hardly get out of bed. His kidneys were also irregular and gave him much annoyance. He recently suffered a severe attack, procured a box of Doan's Kidney Pills at the People's Drug Store, and received relief at once. Doan's Kidney Pills proved so beneficial in every respect that he does not hesitate to recommend them to others."

The Knock-out Blow.

The blow which knocked out Corbett was a revelation to the prize fighters. From the earliest days of the ring the knock-out blow was aimed for the jaw, the temple or the jugular vein. Stomach punches were thrown in to worry and weary the fighter, but if a scientific man had told one of the old fighters that the most vulnerable spot was the region of the stomach, he'd have laughed at him for an ignoramus. Dr. Pierce is bringing home to the public a parallel fact; that the stomach is the most vulnerable organ out of the prize ring as well as in it. We protect our heads, throats, feet and lungs, but the stomach we are utterly indifferent to, until disease finds the solar plexus and knocks us out. Make your stomach sound and strong by the use of Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and you protect yourself in your most vulnerable spot. "Golden Medical Discovery" cures "weak stomach," indigestion, or dyspepsia, torpid liver, bad, thin and impure blood and other diseases of the organs of digestion and nutrition.

The "Golden Medical Discovery" has a specific curative effect upon all mucous surfaces and hence cures catarrh, no matter where located or what stage it may have reached. In Nasal Catarrh it is well to cleanse the passages with Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy fluid while using the "Discovery" as a constitutional remedy. Why the "Golden Medical Discovery" cures catarrhal diseases, as of the stomach, bowels, bladder and other pelvic organs will be plain to you if you will read a booklet of extracts from the writings of eminent medical authorities, endorsing its ingredients and explaining their curative properties. It is mailed free on request. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y. This booklet gives all the ingredients entering into Dr. Pierce's medicines from which it will be seen that they contain not a drop of alcohol, pure, triple-refined glycerine being used instead.

WOULD SHOW BABY THE BILL.

Brother Had Great Scheme to Quiet Crying Infant.

The two-year-old baby in an East End family was showing its keen displeasure at dinner the other evening over the fact there was no more milk on the table. The milk supply had run out, unexpectedly, and the baby wanted still another drink of milk.

The fond and doting parents tried to pacify it with a drink of water, but that didn't go. It wanted some more milk. That was what it wanted. And the child expressed itself in a way that left no doubt about its attitude in the premises.

There was a guest present and the dinner party seemed not unlikely to end up in a riot. It was that already if noise counts for anything.

Then the baby's older brother got a happy inspiration, for the little one was making itself heard with an abandon that was getting on brother's nerves as well as those of the others present.

"I'll tell you what you do, pop," he suggested, "just give him that milk bill you got the other day. You know you were kicking about milk going up in price, and mabbe when he sees the bill he'll quit hollerin' for more."—Cleveland Plaindealer.

MADE HIS LISTENERS SMILE.

Remarks of Reverend Gentleman Altogether Too Apropos.

Of all places, the most difficult in which to preserve one's gravity, when an absurd incident happens, is church.

The worshipers in a certain chapel had some trouble to keep their faces straight a short time ago.

During the service some commotion was caused by a gentleman who accidnetally ignited a box of wax matches in his pocket, and was trying to put them out, while his alarmed neighbors struggled equally hard to help him.

The minister, being short-sighted, could not make out the reason of the disturbance, and thinking to diplomatically cover the incident he innocently said:

"Brethren, there is a little noise going on. Until it is over, let us sing, 'Sometimes a Light Surprises.'"

Some of the congregation were unable to sing.

Plague and Fleas.

The part played by fleas in the spread of plague is dealt with in an able manner by "J. W. W. S." in "Nature." A Latin writer, Avicenna, is quoted to show that about the year 1600 it was known that there was some definite connection between rats and plague. In more recent years it has been a matter of common observation in India that in times of plague a large number of dead rats are found. And these are found to contain the plague bacilli in abundance. In 1898 Simond expressed the view that in the majority of cases the plague was conveyed from the rat to man through the agency of the flea. Experiments which he tried with fleas from rats dead of the plague showed how this is possible. Other experimenters have obtained similar results, while others have been led to doubt Simond's generalization.

Peculiar "Cure Stones.

Occupying an isolated position on the moors about five or six miles above Penzance, in Cornwall, England, a peculiar trio of stones is to be seen. They are arranged in a straight line, the two outside ones being about four feet high and upright, while the center one is a little lower, but much wider. In the last-mentioned there is a round hole large enough to admit of a man passing through. This pile is known as the "Men-an-tol," or "Holed stone." Popular tradition states that anyone crawling through the hole in the center stone will be fore ever immune from rheumatism and allied complaints. In times gone by the country people used to bring their children to the "Holed stone" and pass them through.

Novel Medicine Chest.

When sickness occurs in the country it means, unless medicines are in the house, that a doctor must be sent for, and in many cases it will be hours before he can arrive. Every woman should have a small medicine chest, provided with at least 10 to 25 cents' worth of each of the following medicines, which often will relieve and cure what might otherwise necessitate a doctor's visit: Sirup of ipecac, castor oil, sweet spirits of niter, arnica, witchhazel, sweet oil, olive oil, bicarbonate of soda, licorice compound, camphor, vaseline, paregoric, mustard, ... all roll of antiseptic cotton.

A Charming Chinese.

The style of a Chinese lady's dress apparently never alters, but if she can afford to do so she wears nothing but silk. The first garment that she dons is a sort of apron, a plain piece of silk which is tied round the waist and overlaps behind. Then comes underjacket and overjacket, trousers and apron. In cold weather extra jackets, thickly wadded, are donned.

If the fair Chinese is going to receive friends, or for any other reason wishes to appear especially charming, she paints her face with a paste made of rice flour, which dries and gives her a most cadaverous appearance.

In the Language.

"Some one has said that a kiss is the language of love," remarked the young man in the parlor scene.

"Well," rejoined the fair maid on the far end of the sofa, "why don't you get busy and say something?"

Scott's Emulsion strengthens enfeebled nursing mothers by increasing their flesh and nerve force.

It provides baby with the necessary fat and mineral food for healthy growth.

ALL DRUGGISTS: 50c. AND $1.00.

Hemp Demonstration.

The farmers of Conewago township and nearby were greatly interested in a hemp demonstration last week. On the farms of Gitt & Dellone and S. L. Johns had been grown last year a crop of hemp, and the process of hemp breaking was demonstrated before a large audience of farmers. The demonstration was made by Lysander H. Dewey of the Agricultural Department at Washington, and J. W. Poindexter, of Kentucky, an expert hemp grower of the "blue grass" region. The purpose was to impart full information concerning the profitableness of hemp culture and encourage its growth and furnish seed to those desiring the same.

The demonstration was a success and the quality of the home grown Adams county hemp was pronounced the equal of the product of the "blue grass" region, and same will be further tested at the Hanover Cordage Mill.

General Debility, the Tramp.

General Debility, the tramp the students had a lot of horse play with several weeks ago lingers around the town and was seen last week in the elaborate work of a make up.

When the students gathered him in he was wuzzy, but they made him take a bath and then he was regaled with an assortment of clothes, was taken to class and finally given a grip and escorted to the train but they were unable to pass him along.

General Debility said he had the time of his life here and he was loath to move on so he has been lingering around.

Whether or not he is an adept or an artist at a make up does not appear for he was an hour and a half at the job. The result however was to make himself look as tough and trampship as possible.

He found a place where there was a little running water at the edge of town and taking off his coat proceeded to wash off his brick complexion and when he was through he was about as fair as the majority of Caucasians. Then he spent an hour rubbing on his make up and had the help of a small piece of mirror to show him whether it was done all right. The rubbing process form neck to top of head was continued until he looked every inch a tramp.

Lincoln Tablets for Schools.

The Lincoln Educational League of New York, has provided a fund of $20,000 to be used towards placing in the school houses throughout the country bronze tablets bearing the full text of Abraham Lincoln's address at Gettysburg. The fund provided by the league is to be devoted to paying one half the cost of each tablet, if the school or any person interested in it will contribute the other half.

Uselessness of Killing Authors.

There is really no use killing an author to prevent the country producing others, because the man with a book in him is like a bird that must lay an egg. We might start a new organization to discover people likely to write books and strangle them before they find a publisher, but even that would fail, because it is not possible to tell who can write a successful book until it is written. The literary faculty arises in the most unexpected ways, and even dogma cannot anticipate its uncertainties.—Saturday Review.

Toned Down.

A well known author had been asked to write a brief history of the life of a man who had done some service to his country. This man had originally been a wood chopper, a fact to which his historian gave prominence. "Don't say he was a wood chopper," said the son of the family. "That will never do." "What shall I say, then?" asked the author. "Say—let me see, now. Just say that he was connected with the timber industry."

Chinese Punishment.

The other day the Chinese police court punished one of its female subjects in a novel way. The woman referred to assaulted an elderly man by dragging his pipe from his mouth, thereby causing the loss of two of his front teeth, and for this she was compelled to defray the expenses of a Chinese theater for two days which performed in the temple close to the ... gulley.—Chefu Daily News.

Revised Catholic Marriage Rules

Catholic sweethearts must make their engagements in writing since Easter. Catholic marriages by Protestant clergymen or magistrates will be invalid.

Such marriages have always been punishable, but the Church considered them binding. They were not even that under the new Catholic law.

The revised betrothal and marriage rules were read from every Catholic pulpit in the world on Easter and became effective. As to engagements the rules say:

"Only those are considered valid which have been contracted in writing, signed by both parties and by either the parish priest or the ordinary of the place, or at least by two witnesses."

"Private engagements" are referred to as an indictment to sin and causing the deception of inexperienced girls, and afterward giving rise to inextricable dissensions and disputes."

"Written engagements are not made absolutely obligatory, but it is specified that only such will be "considered valid and produce canonical effects."

"Only those marriages are valid," says the Papal mandate, "which are contracted before the parish priest or by the ordinary of the place, or by a priest designated by either of these, and at least two witnesses."

The marriage must be by or with the consent of the priest of the parish in which either the bride, the bridegroom or both have lived for at least a month.

If neither party has a fixed abode the marriage may not be performed at all except upon permission of the priest's superior.

Elaborate provision is made for registration of marriages, and severe ecclesiastical penalties are provided for priests who violate any of the rules.

The regulations apply even to Catholics who are under excommunication or have left the Church, but not to those who are not nor have ever been members of the Church.

Saved After Meal of Tablets.

The prompt arrival of Dr. A. C. Rice on April 22, saved the life of Amy, the three year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Devine of Edge Grove.

The little girl was up stairs with her mother, when some one entered the store below, kept by Mr. Devine, who was not at home at the time. The mother went to the store, leaving the child alone. In her absence, the tot climbed on a chair near a shelf, upon which were a number of tablets Mrs. Devine was taking as medicine. The child, thinking they were candy, placed several in her mouth and swallowed them.

When the mother returned to the room, the actions of the child gave evidence that something was wrong. Glancing at the shelf she discovered that the tablets had been removed and then realized that her little daughter having observed her take the tablets, thought they were candy and in her absence had taken the strong medicine.

She went at once to the telephone and fortunately found Dr. Rice at home. He arrived about 15 minutes later and applying a stomach pump, removed the tablets from the child's stomach before the sugar coating had been absorbed. It was a narrow escape for the little tot.

This is the second time Dr. Rice was called on a case almost similar, at the same home. About a year ago an older child drank a quantity of turpentine.

The David F. Foutz Company Sues.

The David E. Foutz Company, a N. J. corporation, has instituted suit in the United States Circuit Court to restrain the use of the word Foutz by the S. A. Foutz Stock Food Company, an Oklahoma corporation, in connection with certain preparations of the latter.

Both companies are engaged in the manufacture and sale of preparations for horses, cattle and poultry, and each has its principal office in Baltimore.

The bill of complaint states that the name Foutz has been used by the David E. Foutz & Co. and its predecessor since 1858, that between $200,000 and $250,000 has been spent by the company in advertising its remedies, and for more than 25 years the name has been registered as a trademark. It is alleged that the S. A. Foutz Stock Food Company is infringing the trademark and has refused to discontinue doing so, although notified.

That the company is also charged with making misrepresentations as to the David E. Foutz Company and its preparations. The damage to the trademark Foutz is declared in the bill to exceed $50,000. An accounting and an injunction are asked.

MEMORIAL BUILDING LOCATION

It is to be regretted that the new Battlefield Memorial Commission which met here last week decided to locate the site of the memorial on a point on the third days fight. The Commission have taken their own time to organize, having been appointed months ago. They propose to take months to obtain designs for they decided to offer prizes of $500, $250 and $100 for designs to be submitted latter part of the summer. The Commission could have with the utmost propriety taken more months to locate the site. There was no need for hurry. It will be months before a design can be selected, more months before work is started and years before it is finished.

The act creating the commission calls for a memorial structure to commemorate the services of the soldiers of Pennsylvania in battle of Gettysburg. The Commission confessed to a preference for a building but indicated that the Attorney General advised that a memorial could not be erected needing maintenance. But his decision was not necessarily final. As there had been no haste and no need of haste the Commission could have decided that if they had no authority to erect a building needing maintenance, that they would await until the next Legislature convened and ask for an enabling act.

The COMPILER declares with all the power that can be put into words and with the citizenship of Gettysburg back of the assertion as a unit, that the only fitting and appropriate memorial structure to be erected would be a building, anything else will be mistake and the Commission is urged to delay final action as to site and design until the Legislature has been asked for an enabling act, a delay of only a few months.

A memorial structure in which records of the soldiers of Pennsylvania could be kept, to which their battle flags and other trophies could be donated, in which accoutrements of war with which they did service could be preserved would be the glory of all the memorials erected here. It would be the shrine or temple which thousands annually note the want of, and in the eternal fitness of things the gift should be from Pennsylvania in memory of her sons who fought on Pennsylvania soil. Such a memorial building must ultimately be erected or the battlefield will be incomplete and a Pennsylvania Commission that fails to find a way to erect the preeminent and most appropriate memorial structure—a building—is simply paving the way to have written of their efforts the word—failure.

COOPER MET USUAL SUCCESS IN PITTSBURG

The following article, taken from the Pittsburg Press, describes the results of L. T. Cooper's visit to that city, and the effect of his new preparation as told by people who had become convinced of the soundness of Cooper's theories with regard to the human stomach.

Cooper believes that the human stomach in civilized races has become greatly weakened. He claims that most ill health of the present generation is due to this fact. The article is as follows:

"L. T. Cooper is meeting with the same astonishing success in Pittsburg as in other cities. For the past few days many thousands of Pittsburg people have called at his headquarters to talk with him.

"Cooper's prophecy, made upon his arrival, to the effect that before he left Pittsburg thousands would realize that his theory is correct and would come and thank him for what his medicine had done, is rapidly being borne out.

"On Monday an astonishing number of people called to express their gratitude to Mr. Cooper. Judging from what some of these people had to say to a Press reporter, when interviewed, Cooper's claim that the human stomach is degenerate is distinctly verified.

"One of the most unusual statements was made by Mr. C. W. Woods, of 103 South Highland Street. He said: 'For four years my wife was in very poor health. She was weak and thin, with a hectic flush and cough. Physicians said she had consumption, and I was inclined to believe them. It certainly looked as though her days were numbered, and there appeared to be very little ground for hope.

"'Shortly after Mr. Cooper came to Pittsburg I began to hear of wonderful results that had been obtained by persons who had tried his medicine, so I got some for my wife. She had taken it only two days when she was relieved of a tapeworm 42 feet long. She began to improve immediately—has gained seven pounds since she began taking the medicine. She feels splendid and looks very much better. If any one doubts this statement I would be pleased to have them call at my house and verify it.'"

STREET EXPENDITURES.

The loan proposed to be made by Borough in part for the street expenditures may be all right if the improvements be of a permanent character but this thing of hauling on stone to be ground into dust and then hauling off mud at the cost of hundreds, and even thousands of dollars, should stop. Let the iron stone at our doors be used with a binder of clay and it will be no experiment, as the best battlefield avenue demonstrates daily, or some other hard stone which demonstrable experience has shown will answer the purpose.

Ex-Senator Martin in Franklin.

The Democratic County Committee of Franklin county organized last Saturday for the fall campaign. A County chairman was elected and D H. Tritle was the unanimous choice. A great deal of enthusiasm prevailed.

Ex-Senator Wm. A. Martin of this place received an ovation of applause as he entered the room where the committee were gathered and addressed them as follows: "It affords me great pleasure to meet the representatives of the Democratic party of Franklin county assembled here today. I assure you that the encouragement I have received thus far not only from my own party, but as well from the Republicans is really very encouraging for my election. I will do all in my power that is honorable and upright to make my election. I purpose canvassing every election district of Franklin county and meet the voters personally. I expect to carry Adams county by about 600 majority and if the Democrats of Franklin county stand by me, I believe I will be successful."

Returns Thanks.

I extend my heartfelt thanks to the Democrats throughout the county who honored me with their support at the Spring Primary, resulting in my nomination for County Commissioner. I will ever appreciate the mark of confidence shown in the large vote received and it will be my earnest effort to conduct a campaign for the election which will have the unqualified approval of my fellow citizens, and if elected, I promise faithful service to the peoples' interests and an economical administration of the affairs of the county.

Sprinkler Begins Work.

The Sprinkler of the Woman's Civic Club began its work last week of helping to keep down the dust. It has been decided that no canvas for subscriptions will be made, that the sprinkler will go ahead and former subscribers will be called upon for monthly dues. Other citizens desiring to be served will notify Mr. Kaufman in charge of the sprinkler and they will be served and visited for collections. By reason of complaint of sprinkling too near curb and mud made at that point, the attempt will be made to sprinkle from the center of the street, but if this is found not to answer the purpose the old method of up one side of the street and down the other will be resorted to.

In view of the fact that often the latter method was not sufficient to lay and keep down the dust, less sprinkling will certainly not solve the dust problem.

Judge Swope Affirmed.

The Superior Court of Pennsylvania handed down a decision last week in the case of Charles J. Deardorff vs. Catharine Pepple, affirming the decision of Judge Swope.

The plaintiff recovered a verdict for $200 damages for slander of the defendant. An execution was issued against defendant and her husband, Calvin Pepple, and execution was stayed by Judge Swope on ground that husband was not liable for damages for slander of his wife, and this decision has been affirmed. W. C. Sheely, Esq., represented plaintiff and Wm. Bush, Esq., defendant.

Gettysburg College Wins.

Gettysburg College won in the State Intercollegiate Prohibition Oratorical contest on last Thursday evening. An interesting program was arranged for the contest held in Brue Chapel, the College Orchestra furnishing the music with vocal solo by C. H. Stein and piano solo by Karl F. Irvin.

The contestants and their subjects were: "The Call of Humanity" by C. E. Bender, of Juniata College: "A Threatening Cloud in our Horison" by Thomas B. Uber, of Susquehanna College, and "The Great Enemy of our Nation" by S. F. Snyder, of Gettysburg College.

Dr. Swallow, of Harrisburg, provided a check of $25 to go to the winner, Gettysburg college has only been a member of the Intercollegiate Prohibition Association for two years, yet our representative, S. F. Snyder, of Indiana, Pa., carried off the $25 prize.

The winner of the State contest also wins right to take part in the Inter-State contest between the champions from six states, which will take place at Saratoga in a short time.

AN ORDINANCE

TO amend section one of an ordinance approved the tenth day of January, A. D., one thousand nine hundred and five, entitled "An ordinance relating to buildings and building permits" so as to change the cost of the permit, and to place the cost of surveyor's charges on party applying therefor.

Be it ordained and enacted by the Burgess and Town Council of the Borough of Gettysburg and it is hereby ordained and enacted by authority of the same: That section one of an ordinance, entitled "An ordinance relating to buildings and building permits," approved the tenth day of January, A. Hot Stove—Cool Kitchen

How do you expect to endure the broiling days of summer if you prepare all the food over a glowing coal fire?

You need a "New Perfection" Oil Stove that will do the cooking without cooking the cook. It concentrates plenty of heat under the pot and diffuses little or none through the room. Therefore, when working with the

NEW PERFECTION

the kitchen actually seems as comfortable as you could wish it to be.

This, in itself, is wonderful, but, more than that, the "New Perfection" Oil Stove does perfectly everything that any stove can do. It is an ideal all-round cook-stove. Made in three sizes, and fully warranted. If not with your dealer, write our nearest agency.

The Rayo Lamp a substantial, strongly made and handsome lamp. Burns for hours with a strong, mellow light. Just what you need for evening reading or to light the dining-room. If not with your dealer, write our nearest agency.

D., 1908, being the 5th day of the month at 10.30 A. Post Office Site for Gettysburg.

The omnibus public building bill which has been agreed upon by Congress carries a total appropriation of $23,000,000. It was realized that a howl would go up if no public building bill would be passed and those who are expected to see to it that appropriations should be within the limits of the treasury said no to a big appropriation bill. Just when the present bill will be pushed through is in doubt, as Congress proposes to hold the whip over some of the Roosevelt legislative measures to gain the President's signature to the public building bill.

If, however, the bill escapes all accidents intentional or otherwise, $325,000 is the allotment for the 20th Congressional district of Pennsylvania and the division provided for is $300,000 for building purposes in York and $25,000 for a site for a government building in Gettysburg.

This sum should be sufficient to acquire the best and most expensive site to be had in this place. The building contemplated on the site would be one to accommodate post office, with the rural connections, the Battlefield Park Commission, and office for deputy revenue collector.

A New Kind of Traveler.

Gettysburg gets all kinds of travelers and had a new specimen this week in Joseph Mikulee, who has walked 12,000 miles and is now tramping from the Altantic to the Pacific. He carries a trap on his back loaded with postal cards of himself and pamphlet story of his wanderings. He is a Norwegian by birth and speaks five languages and seems to have no trouble in making his way.

Bids for School House Opened.

The School Board of Gettysburg met on last Wednesday evening and opened bids for the new High School building to be erected at the point on corner of York and Hanover streets.

Five bids were submitted, by Wm. H. Johns, John Irvin, Levi J. Diehl and John Linn of this place, and a Mr. Meno of York. The bids of Johns, Irvin and Meno were very close, there being but several hundred dollars between them, that of Mr. Johns being the lowest at $14,999.00.

The bidding of the contractors did not include the heating plant and when the amount of the bids for the building was ascertained it was decided not to open the bids for the heating but to return them unopened to the bidders. This was done for the reason that when time is here to install the heating apparatus it is believed the Board will be in a better condition from a financial point of view to make a contract.

The contract for the building will be awarded to Mr. Johns and the lot will be acquired of Mrs. Miller at a price of $2800 and operations will be begun at an early date and rapidly pushed forward.

When a rooster finds a big fat worm he calls all the hens in the farm yard to come and share it. A similar trait of human nature is to be observed when a man discovers something exceptionally good—he wants all his friends and neighbors to share the benefits of his discovery. This is the touch of nature that makes the whole world kin. This explains why people who have been cured by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy write letters to the manufacturers for publication, tthat others similarly ailing may also use it and obtain relief. Behind every one of these letters is a warm hearted wish of the writer to be of use to someone else. This remedy is for sale by The Peoples Drug Store.

A Lithuanian Funeral.

On Sunday morning a strange funeral cortege passed through the Mission streets. The hearse was followed by a procession of women walking in the middle of the street. They wore dark skirts trimmed with bands of lace, embroidery, or colored strips, and all wore aprons, some of black silk or cloth, but more of sheer white embroidered corners, and fringed shawls were over their shoulders. It was not a uniform, but more in the nature of holiday attire such as one sees in Italy and France on carnival occasions or fete days. The men in the procession wore conventional dress, but their bearded faces were not American. Inquiring as to the nationality of these odd figures who made such a strange picture in San Francisco, I found they were Lithuanians, and that there is a large colony of them here, mostly employed at a laundry over toward the Potrero.—San Francisco Call.

Driving a Good Bargain.

The barber's small son was in the habit of playing around his father's shop, and he was always keenly interested in the patrons. Many a stray penny found its way into the little chubby hand, and sticks of gum were dropped in quite as though by accident. Judge Williams drifted into the shop the other afternoon for a hair cut. The lad recognized the fact that the judge was a new patron, and so was more than ordinarily interested in him. He hung at the foot of the chair and looked musingly at the judge's bald head. Then he walked slowly to the back of the chair and surveyed the scanty fringe of hair from that point of vantage. He could contain himself no longer and burst out incredulously: "Father, do—you—get a quarter for cutting that?"—Lippincott's.

Must Charge to Get Crowd.

The Ladies' guild of a certain New York church had planned an evening entertainment and reception, and asked the rector to make announcement of it on the Sunday preceding.

"This is all right," he said, "but you must charge admission."

"Why this is just a social evening," they protested. "We are inviting people."

"They won't come," said the rector, "because they will think it is not worth while. But charge a small admission and you will have a good crowd." So the women gave in, and subsequent events proved the rector was right.

Does It Cost You—
TIME to read through the daily and weekly newspapers, the magazines and reviews, and the special journals that constantly clamor for attention? Can you find time to read enough of them to keep posted even on the important topics of human interest at home and abroad? Does the time demanded by so many periodicals leave you time enough for books?
DOES IT COST YOU—
MONEY to buy even a fairly representative list of papers and magazines? Can you afford to subscribe for as many as would be necessary to give you a complete survey of the world's politics, art, religion, industrial affairs, literature, etc? Even if you had the time to read them, would you be able to buy several thousand periodicals, domestic and foreign?
DOES IT COST YOU—
WORRY to sift out the conflicting rumors and to get at the true meaning of every great industrial, political and economic question before the people at the present time? Does it worry or weary you to "keep posted" in this busy, hustling age when there are so few moments for quiet reading and so many demands for your money?

GAVE THEM THE REST CURE.

Method of Minstrel Leader That Was Never Known to Fail.

The throat of the minstrel singer is as delicately sensitive as those of grand opera artists. But George Primrose has a remedy of his own that works astonishing cures.

"It's no use, George," a silver-voiced balladist will huskily whisper half an hour before the curtain goes up "my throat's as raw as a Blue Point on the half shell. I won't be able to sing a note to-night."

"Well, that's too bad," replies Mr. Primrose, his honest face aglow with sympathy; "magnificent organ like yours is not to be trifled with. What you need is a complete rest."

"I guess I'll be all right for the quartette, if you'll stand for me cutting out the solo," protests the singer suspiciously, and a trifle more distinctly.

Not for worlds, 'dear boy,'" answers Mr. Primrose, decisively. "I don't care if the entire audience demands its money back. I should feel like a criminal if I caused permanent injury to such a voice. Take an absolute rest—one week, two weeks if necessary. When you are right again I'll put you back on the salary list."

Then the balladist hurries around to black up and sings so delightfully that he has to take four encores.

A skilled specialist who makes the sufferer say "Ah-a-a-a" and charges him $20, is not in it for a minute with old Dr. Primrose and his magic throat cure.

WERE LOOKING TO THE FUTURE.

Why Parents Could Not Be Satisfied with Ordinary Name.

It is a glorious possibility that any American boy may some day become president, but, according to a story told by Senator Bailey, it sometimes causes fond parents some concern. One of his constituents was the proud father of a promising youngster, and on several occasions sought the senator's advice as to a Christian name, each time expressing himself delighted with the one suggested. One of the Texan's greatest charms is his kindly interest in the personal affairs of humble friends, and it was quite like him, upon seeing the father in question some months later, to inquire if his son and heir had finally received a satisfactory pseudonym.

"Well, no, senator," the man replied. "We haven't been able to decide on one just yet."

"What's the trouble, anyway?" Mr. Bailey asked, with considerable secret amusement. "There are a good many to choose from."

"Yes, that's true," the father said, rumpling his hair; "but we wanted to hit on a particularly good name for him, one that is pretty and has a distinguished sound, and which is not common, as there will be so many babies named after him when he is president."—World's Events Magazine.

Located Murdered Girl.

A strange story of a psychic phenomenon comes from Garhamstown, Cape Colony. Thomas Kerr, who was charged with the murder of Ellen Pinnock, a ten-year-old girl, was recently discharged, the jury having disagreed. The girl disappeared while on her way home with purchases from a Garhamstown grocer named South. South, who practices hypnotism, placed a young man of his acquaintance named Staples in a trance state, and asked him if he could trace the whereabouts of the missing girl. Staples thereupon declared that she had been murdered and lay buried under the floor of a house which he would indicate. He was roused from his trance and, accompanied by a detective and five other men, went to the house in which Kerr lived, and found the body of the girl buried in the cellar.

Compliment That Touched.

When Sir Joshua Reynolds was painting the portrait of Mrs. Billington (an entrancing singer in her day) in the character of St. Cecelia listening to the celestial music on high, she took with her the great composer, Haydn, and showed him the picture. "It is like," said Haydn, "but there is a strange mistake." "What is that?" hastily asked Reynolds. "You have painted her listening to the angels; you ought to have painted the angels listening to her." "Mrs. Billington sprang up and threw her arms around my neck," added Haydn. What woman, with a soul in her would not, and have clinched it with a hearty hug?

Hopping Good Exercise.

Hopping is one of the best exercises for developing muscles. It is easy to do, too, for the movement consists of jumping first on one foot and then on the other, so that the whole weight of the body will be borne by one foot and leg for one or more minutes. This exercise improves the way of carrying the body when walking, for it develops balance as well as muscle. This exercise should be taken when going to bed and the windows should be open, so there will be plenty of fresh air in the room. While hopping breathe deeply.

Not Worrying Now.

Long—By the way, old man, you are looking a hundred per cent. better than you did this time last year. Are you feeling good?

Short—You bet I am. A year ago I was worrying about my debts.

Long—All paid now, eh?

Short—No; but they have increased until there is no use in trying to pay, so I've cut out the worry.

MRS. BOB'S DILEMMA

It Was Lucky That the Restaurant Cashier Was a Woman

Now, by [illegible] Mr. Bob [illegible] he drew on his slippers and settled himself for the evening. "I am ready to listen to your excuses for not meeting me at Hector's."

Mrs. Bob choked back the tears perilously near the surface.

"I did, but you weren't there."

"Just like a woman, if you tell her to meet you east of the Masonic temple she will probably go to the west side of the board of trade."

"But why should she do that?"

"That's just the point. She shouldn't." Bob kicked the footstool energetically.

"Well, I didn't, dear. I never went near the board—"

"Exactly. I never said you did What I did say was that you did not meet me at Hector's, where you asked me to meet you."

"Now, if you are going to scold—" The tears could no longer be suppressed.

"There, my dear, please don't do a sprinkler turn," and Bob assumed a sympathetic air. "Tell me all about it."

"Well, I went to the northeast table—"

"Great guns! I said the—"

"And you weren't there, as you said you would be, so I busied myself with the menu until the waiters looked at me as if they thought I was trying to make out a foreign language. I told one of them I was waiting for my husband, and he grinned. Then I made up my mind that it would be nice to order a fine luncheon and have it all ready when you came. You see, I had held the table almost an hour, and the waiter stood first on one foot and then on the other. He really looked like a Christian martyr."

"Never mind that. I am glad you ordered such a good layout after such a long wait. Now, if that is all—" and Bob picked up his evening paper.

"I wish it had been," she sighed. "I ordered chicken salad, blue points, chocolate ice, and O, lots of things. The waiter looked so grateful to hear me speak that I ordered more than I really wanted."

"Well, if I had not been running to the door every five minutes to see if you were mixed in your directions, I'd have enjoyed my lunch, too," sighed Bob.

"You wouldn't have enjoyed it, either, if you had figured it up—"

"Hang the expense," said Bob, recklessly.

"And hadn't but 25 cents in your purse," continued she.

"Gee whiz! but I gave you a tenner this morning."

"Oh, I bought the loveliest waist—"

"Never mind that. How did you fix things?"

"I lost my appetite for one thing. When they brought me that lovely luncheon I just felt as if I couldn't swallow a morsel—but of course I had to pretend. I sat there until I was ashamed, and the waiter brought me the bill, $2.85. I gave him the 25 cents in my purse, and then I felt so much like crying I had to keep swallowing the lump in my throat. I hated to offer my wedding ring because I haven't taken it off since—"

"Yes?" asked Bob, impatiently.

"I thought it would be a good scheme to have him charge it to you, then I remembered you said you didn't often go there. I saw some other people leaving, and I thought I would try to sneak out with them, but the waiter followed me, saying I had forgotten my check."

Bob was past smiling. Brass buttons and patrol wagons crossed his vision.

"So I walked to the desk as slowly as I could, wondering what I could say. The cashier took the check with a quick, businesslike air, and as I hesitated, she looked up at me so curiously that the shivers ran clear to my boots."

"Yes, dear?"

"'I haven't any money,' I began, and her frosty expression frightened me so I nearly wept—cashiers aren't very sympathetic, are they?"

"There is a resemblance to other creditors."

"Her look frightened me so that my wits came back and I remembered I had some money—'except what I've got where I can't get at it,' I added. 'I put it there because I intended to buy my husband a present, and I didn't want to spend it.' 'Your bill is $2.85, madam.' 'It's in my—my stocking,' I said. She told me to come right back of the desk. She was so smiling I began to like her. But oh, Bob! what if she had been a man!"

Had a Thought Coming.

Frau Bie was awarded by the arbitration court $3,750 for the loss of her husband through an accident on board of a ship. Not long afterward on the same ship a stoker met with an accident which cost him a leg, and the same court awarded him $5,000. Indignant Frau Bie went to the court to complain because a man who only lost a leg got so much more than she was allowed for the loss of a husband. The judge, a bland and wily old gentleman, said: "My dear lady, that good stoker can hardly buy a new leg with $5,000. Now, a good looking woman like you with $3,750 can easily get a new husband, younger and perhaps more loving than your late husband." The widow wiped her eyes and smiled. She had not thought of that.

HAVE MANY NARROW ESCAPES.

Yet Cowboys Are Rarely Killed or Injured in Accidents.

Now, after the day's work was practically over, we had our first accident, says a writer in Outing Magazine. The horse ridden by a young fellow from Dos Cabesas slipped, fell and rolled quite over his rider. At once the animal lunged to his feet, only to be immediately seized by the nearest rider. But the Dos Cabesas man lay still, his arms and legs spread abroad, his head doubled sideways in a horribly suggestive manner. We hopped off. Two men straightened him out, while two more looked carefully over the indications on the ground.

"All right," sang out one of these, "the horn didn't catch him."

He pointed to the indentation left by the pommel. Indeed, five minutes brought the man to his senses. He complained of a very twisted back. Homer sent one of the men in after the bed-wagon, by means of which the sufferer was shortly transported to camp. By the end of the week he was again in the saddle. How men escape from this common accident with injuries so slight has always puzzled me. The horse rolls completely over his rider, and yet it seems to be the rarest thing in the world for the latter to be either killed or permanently injured.

WHEN SMALLPOX WAS COMMON.

A Century or So Ago Every One Expected to Have Disease.

"All our ancestors," said a physician, "were pock-marked, and smallpox was a recommendation if you were looking for work.

"What I mean is that you couldn't get a job if you had not had smallpox. No one wanted a servant who was liable at any moment to be stricken down with the loathsome disease. Hence—"

He opened a newspaper volume of 1774.

"Hence 'help wanted' ads read like this:

"'Wanted, a man between 20 and 30 years of age, to be footman and under-butler in a great family. He must have had smallpox in the natural way. Also a woman, middle-aged, to wait upon a young lady of great fortune and fashion. The woman must have had the smallpox in the natural way.'"

Birds Shot with Water.

Shooting a hummingbird with the smallest birdshot made is out of the question, for the tiniest seeds of lead would destroy his coat. The only way in which the bird can be captured for commercial purposes is to shoot him with a drop of water from a blowgun, or a fine jet from a small syringe. Skillfully directed, the water stuns him. He falls into a silken net and before he recovers consciousness is suspended over a cyanide jar. This must be done quickly, for if he comes to his senses before the cyanide whiff snuffs out his life he is sure to ruin his plumage in his struggles to escape. Hummingbirds vary in size from specimens perhaps half as large as a sparrow to those scarcely bigger than a bee. The quickest eye cannot follow them in full flight. It is only when, though still flying furiously, they are practically motionless over flowers that the best marksmen can bring them to earth.

Japanese Hotels.

Barring the bath, and perhaps the beds, Japanese hotels are delightful. All during your stay in their spotless precincts you are made to feel that you are an honored guest, Japanese etiquette is lavished upon you, and when you depart you are always given a token to remember your visit, usually a white, coarse cotton towel with blue pictures printed on it.

You must thank the little maid for this with an elaborate bow when you go, and the chorus of "Sayo Nara" from all the hotel force gathered in the doorway will seem to have in it, not only the regret of good-by, as we interpret the words, but the deeper feeling which they really mean: "If it must be that we must part."—Travel Magazine.

A Servants' Paradise.

"Every kitchen has a window with one pane out in the Brazilian town of Rio Grande do Sul," said a cook. "That town is a servants' paradise.

"Servants live in their own homes there, as they should everywhere. They come to work at seven in the morning and they quit at seven at night. A 12-hour day. Quite long enough.

"The paneless window is for the milkman, the baker, the butcher, so that these traders can leave their supplies—they usually come early—in a safe place. The Rio Grande servant is, of course, not there to receive them. She is in bed at her own home."

To Match His Coat.

Robert Walton Goelet at a meeting of the Astor Trust company's directors in New York, said of a certain broker:

"The man's nerve is amazing. It shocks me. It reminds me of a money lender to whom a friend of mine, a great rider to hounds, once resorted.

"'Yes,' said the money lender to my embarrassed friend, 'I will renew your note, but only on one condition, sir—namely, that during the next paper chase at Lenox you scatter from your bag these 5,000 pink slips bearing my name and the words, "Money advanced on easy terms." Is it a go, sir?'"

ECZEMA PATIENT LOST HOPE.

But Ordinary Oil of Wintergreen Quickly Cured this Woman.

After treating for Eczema with six different doctors, Mrs. J. A. Wheeler, of Wellington, Ohio, was completely cured by pure vegetable oil of wintergreen. This oil alone could not cure, but she used this oil as compounded with glycerine, etc., in D. D. D. Prescription.

"I feel it my duty to say what a wonderful cure D. D. D. has been for me," writes Mrs. Wheeler. "I was cured a year ago last fall, but did not dare write because I was not sure the cure would be permanent. I had doctored with six doctors and they all said it was seldom, if ever, a case like mine was cured. I think I used only four bottles of D. D. D. and I am permanently cured. If I ever needed D. D. D. again I would be willing to pay $5.00 a bottle."

This remedy and also D. D. D. Soap are sold by us and recommended because we know their merits. We certainly would not recommend them to our neighbors and patrons if we did not positively know of the wonderful results that D. D. D. brings in all kinds of eczematous diseases. Peoples Drug Store.
